

Kenning Poetry

Kenning is a compound expression used in Old English and Norse poetry, which named something without using its name e.g. poultry = hen. A poem made of kennings would be a list of such expressions about one subject:

ROOSTER worm eater ground scratcher loud squawker people waker feathered animal	CHICKEN seed pecker yellow chirper egg breaker beak owner fluffy bird
------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

Now try some animals of your own:

Illustrate:

--